Definition:

72% of revenues raised by Kentucky's 1.8% surcharge on casualty insurance premiums* are committed to KLEFPF and earmarked for the mandatory training of Kentucky law enforcement officers to meet statewide standards, including all expenses of the Department of Criminal Justice Training, all expenses for the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council and proficiency pay for licensed officers who successfully complete a statutorily-mandated additional 40 hours of proficiency training annually.

The remaining 28% of revenue generated by the casualty insurance surcharge are dedicated by statute to Kentucky's firefighters through the Kentucky Firefighters Foundation Program Fund (KFFPF). This document examines only the law enforcement portion of those revenues.*

Dear Commissioner Bizzack:

Late last month I received a letter from Daviess County Sheriff and KLEC Chairman Keith Cain, expressing concern about recent efforts to utilize the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund for purposes other than that for which it was originally intended. He noted that non-law enforcement programs are likely to continue seeking to use KLEFPF monies, and proposed a study be conducted into the history of KLEFPF, the stated versus realized goals and benefits of the program, and the opinions of law enforcement professionals impacted by it.

I agree with his recommendation, and hereby request that DOCJT develop a method for proceeding with such a study. It seems appropriate that the same methodology as was used for the recent constable report be used, but I leave it to you and your staff to determine the best course of action to move forward. In addition, I ask that you please communicate this approach to Sheriff Cain.

I look forward to discussing this with you over the coming weeks.

Sincerely,

Dear Secretary Brown,

This letter is accompanied by the final report regarding the history, purpose, stated goals and benefits of the Kentucky Law Enforcement Fund Program Foundation. As noted in the report, the information pertains only to the law enforcement side of the fund and does not address the fire protection dimension.

This report represents the only known consolidated documentation in state government about the history and use of KLEFPF.

The report was compiled by the Department of Criminal Justice Training Staff Services and Planning Section with assistance on Kentucky Law Enforcement Council records, state budget documents and official public records that are maintained by DOCJT regarding police training standards.

Sincerely,

Impact of KLEFPF Depletion a Concern for Kentucky Officers

Created in the 1960s, training of all certified law enforcement officers in the commonwealth is funded through a single surcharge. Revenue generated from the 1.8 percent surcharge on casualty insurance is divided between fire services and law enforcement services. For the law enforcement side, funds are deposited into the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund. It is an example of imminently-sound logic: insurance to protect property-at-risk provides for professional training of Kentucky's first responders who also protect this property.

Rarely has such a small, dedicated surcharge delivered such tangible results.

For Kentucky law enforcement, KLEFPF funds provide:

- all basic training for new hires as well as mandatory annual in-service training, including 100 percent of all expenses of the Department of Criminal Justice Training. (DOCJT receives no monies from the General Fund.)
- an annual proficiency pay incentive — $3,100 a year — to officers who complete annual mandatory training. (Despite inflation, that amount has not changed in more than a dozen years.)
- all expenses of the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council, which manages uniform training requirements and officer standards statewide.

For professional officers who have dedicated their lives to protecting Kentuckians, a $3,100 pay incentive — when added to a historically-meager salary — often becomes the difference between making ends meet or abandoning a law enforcement career. And when trained officers abandon their chosen profession to earn more elsewhere, Kentucky's $18,000 training investment in each is lost. When a fully-trained and certified Kentucky peace officer leaves law enforcement because that individual cannot financially afford to continue as a peace officer, we have all failed.

Obviously, KLEFPF directly pumps dollars into local economies. Presently, approximately 7,300 certified peace officers fulfill the training requirements and receive KLEFPF's $3,100 proficiency pay. (There are almost 300 certified officers waiting to be added to the KLEFPF rolls.) Those 7,300 certified officers pump nearly $23 million of proficiency pay annually into local economies. Those local benefits domino directly into benefits for the state economy while simultaneously guaranteeing the law enforcement services demanded by taxpayers.

Kentucky has made significant progress in providing professional law enforcement services to our citizens. KLEFPF drives this progress, providing direct services — expected and required services — to all Kentuckians.

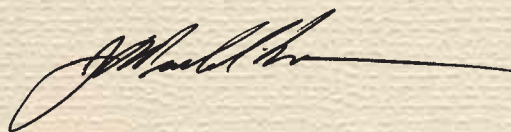

But this delicate balance may be in jeopardy. Since 1980, well over $100 million has been transferred out of KLEFPF to the General Fund. While balancing the General Fund is necessarily the priority, we occasionally overlook the fallout at a local level and, more importantly, at the individual level.

For several years, we have advocated expanding the pool of officers eligible for the pay incentive, to include officers with the departments of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Parks, Charitable Gaming, Agriculture, Alcoholic Beverage Control and Insurance Fraud, as well as investigators with the Office of the Attorney General and certified peace officers employed by school districts and commissioned by the Justice and Public Safety Cabinet as school resource officers. All of whom must meet the same basic training and annual training requirements that officers who receive KLEFPF proficiency pay must meet.

We should also be aware that the $3,100 has not been increased since 2001 and there have been no adjustments for cost-of-living increases despite the original intent of the authors of the statutes.

We should all understand that by depleting KLEFPF, we will have a direct impact on the lives of individual Kentucky officers, on local economies and on providing sufficient law enforcement services to Kentuckians.

KLEFPF is the well-structured backbone to providing professional law enforcement services to Kentuckians from the Mississippi to the Big Sandy. We should ensure that the fund does what it was intended to do while simultaneously juggling the needs of the General Fund.

How we got to where we are

The intricate balance between POPS and KLEFPF

For more than a half century, any Kentuckian wanting to become a law enforcement officer had only to meet six qualifying standards: a high school education, a valid driver's license, no felony record, an honorable military discharge, American citizenship and be 21 years of age. In short, virtually anyone could be hired as a police officer, charged with enforcing the law and protecting Kentuckians. In today's world, it was a recipe for disaster. But by 1998 the qualifications and hiring standards for Kentucky police officers would become more selective, more standardized and more in tune with the responsibilities of the job.

Some larger departments followed their own standards alongside the state's requirements. The majority of smaller or more budgetarily-restricted police departments relied on state standards, often resulting in the deployment of less-than-qualified officers overwhelmed by the increasing complexities of the evolving world of policing. Simultaneously, a serious lack of up-to-date proficiency training (if any was received at all) caused veteran Kentucky officers to fall further and further behind. Kentucky law enforcement seriously lagged behind other states.

Similarly, finding the minimal basic and advanced training available during that period did not match the training and academic needs of police officers in the late 1990s (certainly no more than the decades old hiring and selection standards.) Kentucky formed a task force to review and examine the pertinent issues and make specific recommendations to the Justice Cabinet.

In 1997, the group — consisting of the chiefs and sheriffs' associations, Kentucky State Police, university police, Fraternal Order of Police, DOCJT, Kentucky Law Enforcement Council, and airport police — tackled these endemic problems. After six months of research, debate and study, the group submitted the foundation of the Peace Officer Professional Standards Act (POPS), House Bill 455, which was enacted into law in 1998. More than 15 years later, POPS is considered the single biggest accomplishment of Kentucky law enforcement in the 20th century.

Over 4,250 officers have navigated POPS and training since 1998, 52 percent of the entire Kentucky police corps.

Since 1998, 92 percent of Kentucky police executives reported that recruitment has been strongly enhanced by POPS. These leaders also emphasized that the 17 pre-hiring standards, mandatory extended basic training and annual proficiency training has uniformly and collectively professionalized policing across the state.

Meanwhile, Kentucky prosecutors report significant improvements in criminal investigations, and ultimately convictions, as a result of POPS and training. Liability issues, a constant threat to local governments, have dwindled. Leadership, inter-agency cooperation, written policies, best practices and budgeting have all shown marked improvement. In essence, graduating officers today are prepared to effectively and efficiently begin patrolling and protecting Kentucky communities immediately.

Today, DOCJT, the first nationally accredited public safety training program in the nation, is recognized as the premier law enforcement training program in the nation, providing basic training and annual proficiency training for officers to meet Kentucky's mandatory standards which are among the highest in the nation.

Simultaneously providing the foundation for this professionalization of Kentucky policing, the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund (KLEFPF), also was restructured to support and further advance the progressive changes introduced by the POPS Act.

The astute use of KLEFPF — the only funding mechanism for police standards and training in Kentucky — has quietly but effectively guaranteed higher quality law enforcement officers on Kentucky's streets. Standardized training ensures the smooth applicability of law enforcement across the state, protecting Kentuckians, ensuring the safety of officers and lowering liability insurance premiums for communities. Is this the best that can be done? Is this "good enough" for Kentucky communities regardless of population? Of course not. There is much more to be done, but there is no denying that Kentucky's law enforcement officers are now considered among the best trained policing forces in the nation.

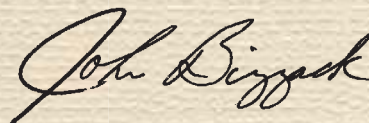

Maintaining Kentucky's nationally-recognized training programs demands a bi-annual reliance on the surcharge revenue, the total amount of which is split between firefighting services and police services. While adequate funds are generated to clearly underwrite the legitimate needs of both, rarely have there ever been funds from KLEFPF that have not been transferred to the General Fund before all police needs for the budget cycle were met which is contrary to the intent of the fund.

The entire Kentucky police community benefits from POPS and KLEFPF. Importantly, every community in Kentucky and every citizen also benefits. Meeting the increasing fiscal demands to produce quality, professional policing throughout the commonwealth will not soon diminish. Assuring that Kentucky's law enforcement professionals continue to improve and provide the increasingly complex services demanded by Kentuckians will require KLEFPF revenues to be first dedicated to genuine POPS and training needs before applying residual money in the fund for other purposes.

What is KLEFPF and why are folks concerned about it

Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund

An example of “imminently sound logic,” KLEFPF (generally pronounced “klef”) harnesses revenue generated by a 1.8% surcharge on all Kentucky casualty insurance policies.

The revenue was initially dedicated to the training of Kentucky fire-fighters and law enforcement officers, basing the “sound logic” premise on the fact that public protection personnel who protect private property are paid by the people who most benefit from those protective services.

Revenue generated by the surcharge has grown by leaps-and-bounds from $14.3 million in the 1988-89 fiscal year to more than $58.7 million in the 2012-13 fiscal year, a 410% leap.

Based on the original intent of the legislation, those funds would be dedicated exclusively to the training of Kentucky public safety personnel. Since 1980 more than $100 million of KLEFPF funds have been used to fund other categories of state government budgets rather than law enforcement.

Although that is a pressing need, the annual “sweeping” of KLEFPF revenue has recently ignored the no-less pressing needs for which the statutes were written, leaving Kentucky law enforcement officers, fire fighters and, worst of all, Kentucky citizens to cope with the fallout. A system specifically designed to provide exemplary public protection training is failing despite funding adequately generated by statute.

General Fund Transfers

The total revenue generated through the casualty insurance surcharge is, by statute, divided between the KLEFPF fund, which covers law enforcement, and KFFPF (Kentucky Fire Fighters Program Fund) which covers fire fighters. By statute, the law enforcement fund receives 72% of the surcharge proceeds and the fire fighters receive 28%.

Kentucky's Casualty Insurance Surcharge = 72% to KLEFPF + 28% to KFFPF

What was KLEFPF intended to fund?

Rarely has such a small, dedicated surcharge delivered such tangible results.

For the Kentucky law enforcement community, more than 8,000 certified officers, KLEFPF funds provide:

- All basic training for new hires (who must meet pre-employment standards called Peace Officer Professional Standards (POPS)) as well as mandatory annual proficiency (in-service) training.
- All costs related to the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council (KLEC) which identifies and manages hiring standards and uniform training requirements statewide. KLEC is governed by a board of professional Kentucky officers/executives and training personnel appointed by the governor.
- All expenses of the Department of Criminal Justice Training (DOCJT), which provides certified training to the bulk of Kentucky's law enforcement personnel while meeting or exceeding all requirements of KLEC.
- An annual proficiency grant — currently $3,100 — to officers who successfully maintain their certifications by completing specific proficiency (in-service) training identified by KLEC.

Kentucky now requires one of the most stringent training regimens in the nation, 888 hours of basic training* and 40 hours of annual supplemental training.

 Effective January 1, 2015*

Under the Omnibus Crime Bill of 1998, to be considered for a position as a Kentucky law enforcement officer, a candidate must pass a rigorous pre-employment examination* of 17 separate standards, including physical fitness, drug screening and background check. Candidates must then successfully complete 22 weeks of basic training as mandated by KLEC. All candidates are trained in the same way, ensuring a standard approach of enforcing the law across the state.

These standards are known throughout the state as POPS, Peace Officer Professional Standards.*

Successful completion of course work renews their professional certifications and triggers a proficiency grant of $3,100.

Kentucky law enforcement, now considered one of the best law enforcement systems — if not the best system — in the United States, excels because all officers are uniformly trained to standardized measures and are compensated for their proficiency. No funds come from the general fund; all are covered by KLEFPF. KLEFPF drives Kentucky law enforcement's success.

How has KLEFPF revenue grown since inception?

Surcharge Income Rises Steadily

Rising steadily, KLEFPF income from the statewide casualty insurance surcharge has increased dramatically since inception. In just the past 25 years, collections have more than quadrupled from $14.3 million to more than $58.7 million. Contrary to popular opinion, this growth was fueled by volume increases in insurance sold: the only surcharge rate increase — from 1.5% to 1.8% — occurred in 2010.

*In the past 25 years
KLEFPF revenue has more than quadrupled to $57.8 million.*

How much does KLEFPF dedicate to law enforcement training annually?

Every penny of DOCJT's expenses and KLEC's expenditures are covered by KLEFPF. Neither DOCJT nor KLEC receives any funding from any other source.

Training Expenses

The Department of Criminal Justice Training (DOCJT) provides certified staff to administer the law enforcement training mandated by the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council (KLEC). DOCJT provides both initial basic training — lasting 22 weeks* — and specialized proficiency (in-service) training for certified officers. Nationally recognized as the nation's premier law enforcement training academy, DOCJT is accredited by CALEA as a flagship law enforcement training academy and by IACET* as a college-level continuing education facilitator. Additionally, DOCJT offers leadership training for mid-level officers and an advanced leadership institute for police executives as well as certified training for telecommunications (911 operators) and coroners.

* Effective January 1, 2015

 Certified officers are required to successfully complete 40 hours of proficiency (in-service) training annually. Successful completion of course work renews their professional certifications and triggers a proficiency grant — through KLEFPF — of $3,100. Kentucky officers, required by law to maintain their certification, have more stringent training requirements than virtually any other state.

 The Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies

* International Association for Continuing Education Training

How much does KLEFPF dedicate to proficiency grants annually?

Proficiency Grants Expenses

All Kentucky officers are required to successfully complete a minimum of 40 hours of proficiency (in-service) training annually. Successful completion of course work renews their professional certifications and triggers a proficiency grant of $3,100. All Kentucky officers must be certified. Various classes of officers (i.e. state police) have been added to KLEFPF proficiency grant rolls by budget adjustments.

 deputy sheriffs, university police, airport police added*

 Kentucky State Police and Commercial Vehicle Enforcement added*

All Kentucky officers must be certified

How many Kentucky officers earn proficiency grants annually?

Officers Receiving Proficiency Grants

The number of officers earning proficiency grants ebbs-and-flows, primarily according to the needs of Kentucky local law enforcement agencies, peaking in 2007. Each of those officers successfully completed initial basic training plus a minimum of one week of proficiency (in-service) training annually.

Officers eligible to receive grants:

- Sheriffs' deputies
- County police officers
- City police officers
- Urban-County police officers
- University police officers
- Kentucky State Police / CVE
- Arson investigators
- Hazardous device investigators
- Legislative security officers

Officers eligible to receive grants but not authorized by legislation

- Fish & Wildlife officers
- Agriculture officers
- Charitable Gaming officers
- Parks officers
- Alcoholic Beverage Control officers
- Insurance Fraud officers
- Attorney General investigators
- School resource officers

Unfortunately, after more than 25 years, approximately 300 certified Kentucky officers who are eligible for KLEFPF proficiency grants do not receive grants. Consider them the 'Forgotten 300,' the victims of inequitable KLEFPF legislation. These officers are certified in the same manner as all other officers. They met POPS initial hiring standards, completed basic training and are required to attend the same proficiency (in-service) training annually. Although required to meet all the qualifications as their fellow officers, they are denied those grants. They can only be added to the KLEFPF rolls by statute, which has failed to pass the legislature on three different occasions.

Kentucky's law enforcement proficiency grants have remained stagnant for more than a decade.

Proficiency Grants Remain Stagnant

Despite initial intentions to increase proficiency grants during the passage of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act, the grants have not kept up with inflation, much less been increased. As Gov. Paul Patton noted in his remarks (p. 20), the original intention was to increase proficiency pay to $5,000 annually. Instead, the grants have increased only from $2,500 to $3,100 since the late 1990's. Although the tiered process of raising proficiency grants incrementally since the late 1990's could have been adequately funded by KLEFPF to reach the $5,000 level, legislation to do so failed to pass.

In 16 years proficiency grants have only increased from $2,500 to $3,100.

Patton Interview

When former Governor Paul Patton moved into the executive mansion in Frankfort in 1996, he already had his eye firmly focused on improving Kentucky's criminal justice system.

"A major priority at that time was completely overhauling and upgrading our entire approach to justice, an emphasis that eventually led to the passage of the Kentucky '98 Omnibus Crime Bill," explained Gov. Patton from his office on the campus of the University of Pikeville where he currently serves as Chancellor.

"We tackled a lot of areas ... juvenile justice, corrections, public defenders ... just to name a few," he recalled. "I was proud of our efforts and the results of that crime bill; I still am!"

Along with the Omnibus Crime Bill, the passage of POPS, the upgrade of DOCJT's capabilities and the creative re-purposing of the KLEFPF fund had significant direct impact on law enforcement agencies and individual officers across the commonwealth, he said.

The importance of KLEFPF's role, according to Gov. Patton, "cannot be overstated.

"Although the fund had been around for years, we opted to tie it directly to continuing accredited law enforcement training annually," he remembered. "Officers who graduated from the annual training program were more proficient in their duties. Every Kentuckian benefitted from better trained law enforcement officers."

The idea was to provide a grant of cash — funded through KLEFPF — to reward certified officers who successfully completed proficiency training each year.

"If you successfully completed your 40 hours of career-development training each year, the state — through KLEFPF — would reward you. Everyone was marching into the future at a steady pace."

Local government entities remained responsible for paying salaries and benefits. "KLEFPF grants were created to reward the extra effort required to standardize all officers' training on an equal footing," Gov. Patton said.

A singular approach to law enforcement training at all levels and across all geographic boundaries was essential to leveling the law enforcement activities across the commonwealth.

"POPS required all officers to meet certain standards to qualify to become law enforcement officers and to pass a uniform basic training process," he added. "All were trained the same way and, in theory, all enforced the law the same way."

Consistently upgrading standardized training — preferably yearly — was seen as a lynchpin of continuing the dramatic progress then being achieved by Kentucky law enforcement. Encouraging officers to continue their training year after year quickly became an integral part of that effort.

"Medals, certificates and plaques are all very nice," Gov. Patton continued, "but when you're a young officer living on a sub-par salary — and most law enforcement salaries were sub-par in those days — a little cash to help your family make ends meet was seen as both an incentive to participate in training and a reward to successfully complete the training."

So KLEFPF payments — formerly seen as a salary adjustment — were rearranged to become grants for certified officers who successfully completed their annual training. Additionally, successful completion of training was required to help maintain each officer's continuing certification as a member of the Kentucky peace officer community.

"To this day, it's still working, although a few nuts and bolts have never been enacted as we originally envisioned," Gov. Patton said with a laugh.

"One of my biggest disappointments is that our original plan to increase KLEFPF grants gradually over a period of time was never implemented."

Gov. Patton's plan called for the KLEFPF grant to be gradually increased from $2,500 when the law was enacted to $5,000 by the end of his second term in 2003. Instead, that original $2,500 has only increased to $3,100 today.

"It's like a man lost in the desert who stumbles onto a rusty hand

Gov. Paul Patton, Kentucky governor 1996-2004, oversaw the adoption of Peace Officer Professional Standards (POPS) and KLEFPF as part of the Kentucky Omnibus Crime Bill.

pump sticking out of the sand,” he said. “Hanging on the old pump is a battered canteen and a sign that says: ‘Inside you will find enough water to prime this pump. Do not drink this water. Use it to prime the pump, drink as much as you wish and leave water in the canteen for the next thirsty wanderer.’

“The problem,” he said slapping his palm on the desk, “do you take the short-term view and gulp down all the water in the canteen, leaving the next person no alternative? Or do you take the long-term view, follow the directions, prime the pump, and save yourself and, possibly, whoever follows?”

Leaning back in his chair, his next words were forceful. “Our argument was that the KLEFPF grants kept priming the pump and, as a result, all Kentucky communities and all Kentuckians individually received better, more professional and more efficient law enforcement services from better trained, more proficient law enforcement officers.”

Unfortunately, KLEFPF grants to officers have not even kept pace with inflation, much less Gov. Patton’s original proposal. But that shortfall can’t be blamed on a dwindling revenue stream.

A surcharge on property insurance, KLEFPF brought in around $28 million in the 1998-99 fiscal year as this legislation passed through the legislature. By 2012-13, the revenue stream grew to more than $58 million.

“The dollars are there,” Gov. Patton emphasized.

“Now things change, particularly revenue streams earmarked for specific uses, like KLEFPF. Few people know that better than I do. Overages in a revenue stream — a rare occurrence — must be swept up to offset other expenses in the general fund. That’s an appropriately acceptable use of almost any fund.

“But, it should be kept in mind that KLEFPF was earmarked for law enforcement purposes. Rather than sweeping out the money and leaving a pittance to underwrite our law enforcement training, why not adequately fund the training first, then sweep what is left into the general fund?” he asked.

“The law — as we originally envisioned it — continually upgraded the public protection provided throughout Kentucky. It has improved year after year.

“It was a laudable goal; I’m proud of it. And it’s a goal that can still be fulfilled year after year with subtle budget adjustments. All Kentuckians will benefit.”

Forgotten Officers

If Kentucky’s law enforcement improvement efforts are to continue “marching into the future at a steady pace,” as Gov. Patton had stated earlier, then KLEFPF grants must be “standardized across the board, as we originally intended.”

“There are still more than 300 law enforcement officers — mostly working for state government — who are required to meet POPS standards, complete basic training, and complete 40 hours of proficiency training every year — the same requirements as all other officers — but these officers do not receive KLEFPF grants,” said Gov. Patton.

“Why are these 300 who meet the same requirements not treated exactly the same as Kentucky’s other 7,300 law enforcement officers? That’s a problem on multiple levels and it should be addressed sooner rather than later!”

Overview of DOCJT and KLEC

The Department of Criminal Justice Training, a nationally-accredited state agency, provides more than 500 training courses to 10,000 Kentucky law enforcement personnel annually*. Located on Eastern Kentucky University's campus, DOCJT delivers a 22-week basic training curriculum that is both mentally and physically demanding, from defensive tactics to legal issues and drug enforcement to defensive driving.

In addition to training new recruits, DOCJT provides Advanced Individual Training (AIT) for all Kentucky officers (all officers must successfully complete a minimum of 40 hours of training annually to maintain certification). AIT provides educational services necessary to meet the demands of today's law enforcement officers including patrol, investigation, leadership and forensics.

DOCJT was the first training academy in the nation to be accredited by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) as a public safety training program. Now a CALEA flagship agency, DOCJT has also earned accredited status through the International Association for Continuing Education and Training — making it America's only law enforcement training academy accredited by two internationally-recognized, independent accrediting organizations.

The Kentucky Law Enforcement Council governs training requirements and class curricula for all of the state's law enforcement and is charged with certifying the activities of all four of the state's law enforcement training schools — DOCJT, Kentucky State Police Academy, Lexington Division of Police Academy and Louisville Metro Police Academy. KLEC also administers the Peace Officer Professional Standards (POPS) certification process throughout the state, oversees instructor certifications and monitors the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund (KLEFPF).

Consisting of 20 members who serve four-year terms, including 11 gubernatorial appointees, KLEC includes a city manager or mayor, three sheriffs, five police chiefs, a citizen-at-large and a U.S. Attorney as well as the KSP commissioner, Southern Police Institute director, a Kentucky Bar Association representative, the dean of Eastern Kentucky University's College of Justice and Public Safety and the presidents of the Fraternal Order of Police, Kentucky Peace Officers' Association, Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police and Kentucky Sheriffs' Association.

KLEC meets quarterly and by law is required to report its activities annually to the Governor and the General Assembly. Although its administrative offices are located on the DOCJT campus, KLEC is an independent state government agency.

Recommendations

The 7,000+ members of the Kentucky police community continue to strongly support their long-standing request to:

- Add the remaining certified officers — the ‘Forgotten 300’ — to KLEFPF proficiency grant eligibility.
- Allow the coverage of law enforcement training and proficiency grants expenses BEFORE sweeping the remaining funds into the General Fund.
- Advance the original 1998 recommendation to incrementally increase proficiency grants from $3,100 to the originally planned $5,000 over the next three bienniums.
- Establish and maintain a contingency fund of $5 million from KLEFPF resources to provide funding for future unanticipated needs or emergencies.

15.460 Supplemental payments and pension contributions to local governments from fund -- Supplements to qualified police officers, sheriffs, and deputy sheriffs -- Receipt of supplements during period of military activation.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (4)(a) of this section, beginning July 15, 1998, an eligible local unit of government shall be entitled to receive annually a supplement of two thousand seven hundred fifty dollars ($2,750) for each qualified police officer it employs, and beginning on July 1, 1999, an annual supplement of three thousand dollars ($3,000) for each qualified police officer it employs, plus an amount equal to the required employer's contribution on the supplement to the defined benefit pension plan to which the officer belongs, but no more than the required employer's contribution to the County Employees Retirement System hazardous duty category. In the case of County Employees Retirement System membership, the pension contribution on the supplement shall be paid whether the officer enters the system under hazardous duty coverage or nonhazardous coverage. The local unit of government shall pay the amount received for retirement coverage to the appropriate retirement system to cover the required employer contribution on the pay supplement. Should the foundation program funds be insufficient to pay employer contributions to the system, then the total amount available for pension payments shall be prorated to each eligible government so that each receives the same percentage of required pension costs attributable to the cash salary supplement.

(2) Each qualified police officer, whose local government receives a supplement pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, shall be paid by the local government the supplement which his or her qualifications brought to the local government. The supplement paid each police officer shall be in addition to his or her regular salary and, except as provided in subsection (4)(b) of this section, shall continue to be paid to an officer who is a member of:

(a) The Kentucky National Guard during any period of activation under Title 10 or 32 of the United States Code or KRS 38.030; or

(b) Any reserve component of the United States Armed Forces during any period of activation with the United States Armed Forces.

(3) (a) Each qualified sheriff who receives the maximum salary allowed by Section 246 of the Kentucky Constitution and KRS 64.527 shall not receive a supplement.

(b) Each qualified sheriff who does not receive the maximum salary allowed by Section 246 of the Kentucky Constitution and KRS 64.527, excluding the expense allowance provided by KRS 70.170, shall upon annual settlement with the fiscal court under KRS 134.192, receive that portion of the supplement that will not cause his or her compensation to exceed the maximum salary.

(c) Each qualified sheriff who seeks to participate in the fund shall forward a copy of the annual settlement prepared under KRS 134.192 to the fund. The sheriff shall reimburse the fund if an audit of the annual settlement conducted pursuant to KRS 134.192 reflects that the sheriff received all or a portion of the supplement in violation of this section. A sheriff who fails to provide a copy of the annual settlement to the fund or to reimburse the fund after correction by audit, if required, shall not be qualified to participate in the fund for a period of two (2) years.

(d) Each qualified deputy sheriff shall receive the supplement from the sheriff if the sheriff administers his or her own budget or from the county treasurer if the sheriff pools his or her fees. The failure of a sheriff to comply with the provisions of this section shall not affect the qualification of his or her deputies to participate in the fund.

(4) (a) Eligible local units of government shall receive the salary supplement, excluding funds applicable to the employer's pension fund contribution, provided in subsection (1) of this section for distribution to an officer who is eligible under subsection (2) of this section.

(b) A qualified police officer receiving a salary supplement during any period of military activation, as provided in subsection (2) of this section, shall not be entitled to receive the employer's pension system contribution, and the salary supplement shall not be subjected to an employee's contribution to a pension system. The salary supplement shall otherwise be taxable for all purposes.

Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund Survey

Introduction:

At the direction of the Justice and Public Safety Cabinet, Department of Criminal Justice Training coordinated an evaluation of the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund (KLEFPF).

The impact of KLEFPF can be boiled down to the relationship between a certified peace officer, the employing agency, and the support provided by the commonwealth for proficiency that is both earned and maintained.

Rather than ask Kentucky's peace officers to rank statements on a scale, DOCJT gathered qualitative data on how the $3,100 KLEFPF proficiency pay and the training and support services funded by KLEFPF personally effects the commonwealth's law enforcement community. It has become apparent that today's decision makers need to understand the individual impact their choices have on peace officers in Kentucky.

Survey Methodology

Data was collected on personnel, pay, rank, agency type, and years of service of Kentucky peace officers.

The KLEFPF survey was conducted as a web-data collection. Also, the survey was posted on DOCJT's website <https://docjt.ky.gov>

For agencies without an email address or who chose to opt out of the web based survey, a survey notecard was sent with DOCJT's website address stating where to go to take the survey. All Kentucky law enforcement agencies were given the opportunity to provide data to be used in the true evaluation and description of KLEFPF.

There are currently more than 7,000 recipients of KLEFPF's proficiency grants, which is $3,100 per included officer per year (including available retirement contribution) that has not changed since 2001.

There currently are approximately 7,300 POPS-certified peace officers in the commonwealth who attend certified training and receive support services at no cost to their employing agency.

Data collected represented all agency types for law enforcement peace officers.
